FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Third Annual BWA TD Bank Winter Blast at Bretton Woods

The third annual TD Bank BWA Winter Blast, a skiing, snowshoeing, and snow tubing competition where teams compete for prizes while dressed in costumes, takes place at the Bretton Woods ski area Feb. 27.

Hosted by Bretton Woods Adaptive (BWA), Inc and the Omni Mount Washington Resort, the winter blast produces 75 percent of the revenues for adaptive lessons.

Prizes are awarded for the best costume, the team that raises the most money, and for the team with the best score in the alpine skiing or riding treasure hunt. Prizes are also awarded for teams that complete the most Nordic ski laps, and snow tube runs and for the winner in a snow shoe rally. Winter Blast events are open to both adaptive and non-adaptive participants of all ages.

BWA runs a four season program serving over 150 students per year in winter sports, golf, biking, hiking, swimming, canoeing and kayaking through private and group lessons. BWA serve local residents, school sand agencies, disabled veterans, the wounded warriors project, and resort guests from throughout New England.

Registration begins at 8 am, and events kick off at 10 a.m. Lunch will be served to all participants at 1 p.m. at the Slopeside Lodge. For information on how to create or support a team, call 603-278-3398, e-mail tom@brettonwoodsadaptive.org, or visit www.brettonwoodsadaptive.org. Participants are encouraged to raise money to support their team and the general public can donate money through the website.
